

Building an Infrastructure for Digital Humanities Research: Issues and Considerations

Peter Zhou
University of California, Berkeley pzhou@library.berkeley.edu

In this presentation, I will discuss some major initiatives to build a digital platform for humanities research at the University of California, Berkeley. In particular, I will explore the possibilities of incorporating Web 2.0 and Library 2.0 features in designing such a platform, with case studies that feature our current digitization projects of East Asian rare book collections, as well as a conceptualized digital hub for the study of contemporary China.