

Mr. Alan Ng currently works in the University of Hong Kong Libraries as a library systems analyst. He is the system administrator for HKU's Millennium ILS and HKALL (Hong Kong Academic Library Link) system. He is also the major liaison person between HKU Libraries and Innovative Interface Inc. (Millennium ILS vendor). He obtained the MLIS at the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign. Previously he has graduated from Electrical and Electronic Engineering Department of the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology. His research interest includes ILS enhancement, e-resource management and library automation.