Owing to its unique historical and geographical background, Taiwan has been influenced by various cultures, from Austronesian, Han, Spanish, Portugal, Dutch, and Japanese to Western cultures in the 20th century, which demonstrates its multicultural nature.

Through the cross-sector cooperation of information technology and humanities experts, the Taiwan e-Learning and Digital Archives Program (TELDAP) contributes positively to the preservation, interpretation and re-presentation of Taiwan's cultural diversity in the digital environment. In the speech, we will illustrate the contribution of TELDAP to the preservation and re-presentation of Taiwan's diverse culture by presenting the cases.
